

Online Phonics Training Course

A new online phonics teaching training course provided by Debbie Hepplewhite, author of the Phonics International program and phonics consultant for the Floppy's Phonics Sounds and Letters program, is now available. This course covers the essentials of teaching systematic synthetic phonics based on the alphabetic code and its integration with wider reading, spelling and writing, focusing on beginning readers as well as older readers with special needs.

The course is about very focused (core) phonics knowledge and practice introduced incrementally (systematically), for both teaching and learning purposes, alongside high-quality incidental (that is, non-systematic) phonics teaching and learning provided in simple ways as the opportunity arises.

A 50% discount for this program is currently being offered as part of the Introductory Launch of the Program.

For further information about the course and to register click here.